The Canadian Forces College Foundation was envisioned in 2011 by forward-looking, community-minded individuals whose goals were to contribute to the educational excellence and experience of the College.

The Foundation enriches and further enhances the Canadian Forces College programme as defence dollars diminish and the need for officers and selected defence professionals educated in national and international security affairs increases.

The following are among the many important activities supported by the Foundation:

- Promoting public awareness of its mission, capabilities and accomplishments.
- Organizing and supporting lectures, curriculum development, symposia and other educational initiatives in the area of defence and security studies.
- Supporting and funding research and education in the area of national and international defence and security studies.
- Establishing and maintaining a Canadian Forces College Museum.
- Establishing and supporting an active alumni affairs programme.

This, the third year of our operations brought us some very substantive progress, if still at a deliberate rate. To be sure, we are still purely reliant on the volunteer contributions of time by our members. And of course the financial generosity of our supporters. We aspire to achieve a model where corporate and other donations will reach the level at which we can hire an Executive Director, at least part-time.

A major accomplishment this year was the inaugural Strathrobyn Dinner in recognition of last year’s Honorary PhD recipient, Dr Tom Jenkins. Held downtown at the newly reopened Royal Canadian Military Institute, it served as our first significant fund-raiser and was an unqualified success.

We continued to support the regular programmes of the academic year, which are chronicled in the pages of this report. Notable firsts this year included support to a modest field programme for international participants, support to fill a void in the fitness programme of the civilian students and the launch of the online retail Kit Shop. Our support to these and many other ongoing events in the lives of the CFC students are clearly making a difference.

Please read the detail and satisfy yourselves that our programmes are delivering their intended results in support of the Canadian Forces College and its student body. We count on your support and we are eager to respond to your thoughts and reactions. Thank you.
The Social Media and National Security Workshop
“Uncomfortable Bedfellows? The State, National Security, and Social Media”

The Social Media and National Security Workshop was conducted at CFC, Simonds Auditorium from 10-11 April 2014. This timely workshop was organized in cooperation with the Munk School of Global Affairs, University of Toronto to look at and address the “social media and national security” issues facing today’s challenging environment. The keynote speaker was Mr. Steve Ladurantaye, Director of News and Government Partnerships, Twitter Canada who helped launch the workshop and situate both speakers and participants to the ubiquitous social media used around the world. Panels discussed issues such as: disruptive technologies and strategic opportunities, freedom vs control, #Revolution In140 Characters, Canadian responses to social media, and the future. A total of 21 guest speakers and moderators, and 50 participants from the Greater Toronto Area attended this very popular workshop and feedback suggests that this event should be run on an annual basis. The Social Media and National Security Workshop was a unique opportunity to bring together academics, practitioners, military and civilian subject matter experts from across the whole-of-government.

“I would [rather] use the language of leadership - discipline, loyalty and strong leadership succession. I would talk of values, humility and compassion.”

CIC Toronto: Bridging Troubled Waters: Japan and China at War in the East China Sea?

As Chinese ships, aircraft and drones continue incursions into the disputed area, twenty Pacific Rim countries approved the first-ever code of conduct for unplanned naval encounters at sea. Are there parallels with 1914 in the East China Sea, as former Australian Prime Minister Kevin Rudd and the Japanese Prime Minister believe? One hundred years after WW1, are we looking at the venue of the next global war? If so, what does it mean for Canada’s diplomatic, military and economic interests? Join Dr. James Manicom for a provocative exploration of this timely issue. CFC Foundation Membership in CIC allowed for free student attendance at many events including this topical book launch.
Canada's Public Policy Forum is an independent, non-governmental organization dedicated to improving the quality of government in Canada through dialogue among leaders from all sectors of Canadian society.

The CFC Foundation sponsored a Commandants Reception in for the combat Veterans’ Theatre Group at the AHOM thanking them for their excellent (and free to CAF personnel and retirees) performance on the Toronto stage in honour and support of veterans.

Canada’s Public Policy Forum honoured four Canadians for their outstanding contributions to public policy and governance, at its signature event on April 16, 2015. These extraordinary leaders from all walks of professional life exemplify the Public Policy Forum’s commitment to achieving greater understanding and cooperation between the public and private sectors.

"For those who care deeply about public policy and good Canadian governance, our Dinner is an annual 'homecoming,'" says David Mitchell, President & CEO of the Public Policy Forum. "It's the most significant event of its kind ."

Premier Kathleen Wynne chaired our 28th Annual Testimonial Dinner & Awards.

Canadian Security Studies Programme

Visit to Fort Niagara

The 2 week in situ Canadian Security Studies Programme allows for a weekend of free time for students to return home or for the International visitors to take in the historical points of interest such as Fort Niagara and the Southern Ontario wine growing region. The CFC Foundation supported this visit in conjunction with the CF Foreign Student liaison programme.
STRATEGIC LEADERSHIP SYMPOSIUM

“Learning From One Another”

The Strategic Leadership Symposium was conducted from 5-6 June 2014, in partnership between the Centre for National Security Studies and the IVEY Institute for Leadership, with funding support from the Aurea Foundation and the CFC Foundation. With over 12 International and Canadian senior Flag and General Officers and their CEO counterparts debating such issues as Defining Strategic Leadership, Strategic Culture, how to Create Strategic Leaders, and, what can business and the military learn from each other? The symposium was conducted to a full audience in Simonds Auditorium with non-academic networking in the Armour Heights Officers Mess.

CFC Fitness Programme Relocation

As a result of the closure of the Dextraze Fitness Centre on the College grounds, the 200 plus military students of the 2014 academic classes were required to relocate to alternate fitness venues. The Canadian Forces covered the cost for this relocation, however, the non-military students were left with no options to maintain their fitness alongside their military course mates. The CFC Foundation purchased memberships at the local Good Life Fitness facility enabling the civilian students to rejoin their colleagues on the mat and track!

International Night

The Canadian Forces College Foundation sponsors the annual College tradition of “International Night”, the highlight of the College Social Calendar. Up to 25 Countries’ International Officers, their families, consuls and embassies put on their finest national clothing and host their classmates and guests for an evening of spectacular food and entertainment. This event is recognized as one of the finest of its kind in the city of Toronto and provides a lifetime of memories for hosts and guests alike.

SOCIAL MEDIA AND CYBER INFLUENCE WORKSHOP

The Social Media and Cyber Influence Workshop was conducted 9-10 April 15 by the Centre for National Security Studies in conjunction with the Canadian Defence Academy and the Canadian Security and Intelligence Service with funding support from the CFC Foundation. The Aim was to assess the impact of social media and cyber influence on today’s security environment and determine its use by state and non-state actors. While keeping the subject matter in the Unclassified domain proved challenging, concepts and ideas were freely exchanged and the result was a very useful workshop which begged annual repetition. Networking was enhanced by the ambiance of the Armour Heights Officers Mess.

The Final Cultural Event of the student year is Foundation sponsored Awesomefest, a wide open opportunity to clear the registers of any old issues and prepare for the upcoming posting season! Prizes are awarded for selected categories.

1. The Lisa Simpson Award - Bestowed upon the student deemed by their peers to have most unceremoniously tried to ingratiate themselves with the DS, professors, or presenters through what can only be termed shameless academic self-promotion.

2. The Angry Questioner Award - Bestowed upon the student deemed by their peers to have most egregiously challenged and/or attacked guest lecturers, resident professors, or presenting DS through aggressive, and potentially interrogative questioning tactics.

3. The Wall Flower Award - Bestowed upon the student deemed by their peers to have stood out... for effectively not standing out during JCSP 40. (Note: the use of student photos to aid in the identification of “ghost” students is acceptable for the nomination and voting process)

4. The Sporty Spice Award - Bestowed upon the student deemed by their peers to have dedicated an inordinate portion of their intended APT, lunch, free, and or sleep time to selfless physical self-gloration and enhancement through an eerie fixation on physical training and appearance.
Inaugural Strathrobyn Dinner

Canadian Forces College Foundation
“Enabling Leaders in Global Security”
Strathrobyn Dinner
Tuesday, 10 February, 2015

Join the Directors of the Canadian Forces College Foundation at the inaugural Strathrobyn Dinner celebrating the conferring of an Honorary Doctorate of Philosophy to one of Canada’s premier innovators:

Mr. Tom Jenkins, OC, CD, Chairman, OpenText Corporation, Director, Thomson Reuters, Trans-Alta Corporation and the CCCE
Mr. Jenkins to address: Cyber Security - strategies for Corporate Canada
“It was an honour to attend the first Strathrobyn Dinner and I am grateful to the CFC Foundation for having made some seats available for NSP students. While the dinner was a very enjoyable social event, the conversation around dinner was professionally outstanding. It was quite something to discuss with senior industry and banking executives their views on global and strategic risks. It was encouraging to see that many of their most pressing concerns are actually part of the NSP curriculum. Of course the opportunity to discuss innovation, the Defence Procurement Strategy, and Cyber Security with Dr Tom Jenkins after dinner was a memorable occasion”

Senior Executive Student

“Thank you to the Canadian Forces College Foundation for bringing together students from the National Security Programme with business and community leaders. It was truly a night to remember.”

The Munk Debates are the world's preeminent public debating forum.

The semi-annual Debates were established in 2008 as a charitable initiative of the Aurea Foundation co-founders Peter and Melanie Munk. The Debates take place in Toronto in the evening in front of an audience of 3,000 people at Roy Thomson Hall. The Debates last approximately an hour and a half. Two panelists argue for a debate style motion and two against. The format is short opening statements followed by a civil and substantive moderated panel discussion, followed by short closing statements. Past participants include Henry Kissinger, Glenn Greenwald, Paul Krugman, Fareed Zakaria, Tony Blair, Christopher Hitchens and Larry Summers, among others. The Debates are broadcast throughout Canada by the CBC and across the continental United States on C-SPAN. The transcript of each debate is published as a book in Canada by House of Anansi Press and internationally.

The Munk Debates are open to the general public. Tickets to the debates are $25 to $90 each. Seating is limited. Each event begins at 7:00 PM with a vote by the audience on the resolution being debated. The final vote is tallied and the winning side announced before 9:00 PM.

The Munk Debates are organized by Rudyard Griffiths, the President of the Peter and Melanie Munk Charitable Foundation.

“On behalf of the JCSP students and I who attended the Munk debate on Friday 10th April, may I take this opportunity to thank the Foundation for the provision of those tickets. This is the second event during the JCSP 41 calendar year that we have enjoyed your generosity; it is much appreciated. As you are aware, the debates command the best and most interesting commentators from the political and media worlds. The invites serve two useful purposes for the college audience: first they expand the spectator's knowledge of a key topic on the world agenda, exposing us to key arguments and ideas that are rarely exposed in the popular press, twitter, news et al; and second, as we seek to improve the critical thinking, analysis and persuasive arguing skills of the students, we are provided excellent demonstrations of how to frame problems, expose position statements, demonstrate supporting academic views and counter opposing views. It is so impressive that I am recommending curriculum staff consider inclusion of videos of the debates as part of appropriate course study material.

On the debates themselves, we have now seen two very different styles. The November debate on Obama’s Foreign Policy was articulate, witty and thought provoking. Speakers proffered ideas and challenged each other to prove their thesis statements. The recent debate on US policy towards Russia was very polarised with some of the speakers having vested interest in the outcome of the current hostilities. Arguments were passionate, uncompromising but again intellectually stimulating; we were left in little doubt that the speakers would not be dining together after the event!

I hope the Foundation will be able to continue this venture and that students and staff will continue to benefit from future Munk debates.” UK Exchange Directing Staff Officer

CFC Programmes
The College provides joint advanced Professional Military Education for Canadian Forces and International officers in a joint and bilingual environment. The College currently offers seven principal programmes of study:

National Security Programme (NSP):
The National Security Programme is a 10-month residential programme for selected security and defence professionals, military and civilian, who are ready for employment as executive leaders of their respective institutions. The candidates are experienced security professionals who are highly motivated to share their knowledge with colleagues, to enhance their understanding of the strategic environment and to develop their executive leadership skills. Canadian Forces and International Officers of the colonel or naval captain rank, and Public Servants of EX-1 status are occasionally joined by leaders in industry to make up a diverse, engaging and knowledgeable class. Academically eligible candidates may undertake a Master of Public Administration (MPA) in conjunction with the National Security Programme.

Joint Command & Staff Programme (Residential) JCSP (Resid):
The JCSP Resid is a 10-month residential programme spanning one academic year, designed to prepare selected senior officers of the Defence Team at the major and lieutenant-colonel rank levels and naval equivalents for Command or Staff appointments in the contemporary/future operating environment across the continuum of operations. Academically eligible students may also undertake a Master of Defence Studies (MDS) degree in conjunction with the JCSP (Resid).
Conducted annually from August to June, the focus of the programme is on joint campaign planning and war-fighting at the operational level.

Executive Leaders’ Programme (ELP):
The five-day ELP is conducted annually in the early fall for newly-promoted brigadier-generals and commodores and newly-appointed senior chief petty officers first class and chief warrant officers. The aim of the ELP is to provide insight into contemporary executive leadership.

Canadian Security Studies Programme (CSSP):
Offered under the auspices of the CNSS, the two-week CSSP programme is held annually in the late spring. The focus is national security at the strategic level, in the context of various national and international issues. The programme provides an opportunity for senior Regular and Reserve Force officers, Public Service and industry leaders, and international participants to engage Canadian national security in a unique collegial atmosphere. Although participants are selected by National Defence Headquarters, the College solicits participation from other government departments at the federal, provincial and municipal levels and from defence-related industries.

Joint Command & Staff Programme (Distance Learning) JCSP (DL):
The JCSP DL mirrors the same curriculum as JCSP Resid. The DL programme spans two academic years and is divided into two parts, DL1 and DL2. Like its residential counterpart, the DL programme is designed to prepare selected senior officers of the Defence Team at the major and lieutenant-colonel and naval equivalent rank levels for command or staff appointments in the contemporary/future operating environment across the continuum of operations. Academically eligible students may also undertake a Master of Defence Studies degree in conjunction with the JCSP (DL).
DL1 is conducted annually from August to July and includes a two-week on campus session in the July timeframe. DL2 is conducted annually from August to June and also includes a two-week on-campus session, culminating in a combined capstone exercise and graduation/convocation ceremony with the graduates of the residential programme.

Joint Staff Operations Programme (JSOP):
The JSOP is a 10-day, exportable programme which is offered twice in the early fall. It is a mandated course for captains, naval lieutenants, majors, and lieutenant-commanders who are, or will be, employed for the first time at operational or strategic-level headquarters. The aim of the JSOP is to provide participants with the skills and knowledge necessary to function as junior staff officers at a joint or joint and combined headquarters at the operational level.

Outreach
CFC’s Toronto campus facilities also house the Centre for National Security Studies (CNSS) which has been established to provide a forum for national security analysis in its broadest context. Intellectually, the CNSS is a member of the family of national strategic studies and international affairs organizations, which are sponsored at the university level and participate in, and provide programmes and services to, senior members of federal, provincial, and private organizations. The aim of the CNSS is to foster the study and improved understanding of Canadian national security.

The Foundation Museum continues on its way to becoming reality, virtually! The goal is to create a modern Virtual Museum allowing access to anyone with a computer. This project will continue to develop over the next few years, with the assistance of the Chief Librarian of the College.

The Foundation has completed a search for an appropriate entrepreneur or company to operate a small Foundation Shop which would cater to both the public and students of the College. All proceeds from the Shop will go towards the Foundation Fund. The CANEX retail outlet of the CF Personnel Support Programme has been signed as the CFC Foundation retailer.

The Plan for activating the passive Alumni of the College is well underway. Annual Alumni events have taken place in Ottawa each September. Privacy issues related to database management continue to inhibit active recruiting. This issue is expected to be resolved in 2015.
